Placemat Round Robin
Strategy

This activity is designed to allow for each individual’s thinking, perspective and voice to be heard, recognised and explored.

- Form participants into groups of four.
- Allocate one piece of A3 or butcher’s paper to each group.
- Ask each group to draw the diagram on the paper (or provide the template for them)

The outer spaces are for each participant to write their thoughts about the topic.

- A Round Robin enables each participant to share their views.
- The circle in the middle of the paper is to note down (by the nominated scribe) the common points made by each participant or the negotiated meaning.

Each group then reports the common points to the whole group.
