In 2016 Brisbane Catholic Education will host three leading theologians to lead our Master Class series. Professor Stephan Bevans, Professor Thomas Groome and Professor Trevor Cooling are all renowned thought-provoking speakers who inspire in the area of Catholic education and identity.

Stephan Bevans: A Roman Catholic priest in the society of the Divine Word who is a Professor of Mission and Culture at the Catholic Theological Union, Chicago. Stephan Bevans specialises in Mission Theology and what is mean by mission in a contemporary, recontextualised Church.
Master Class Date: Friday April 29th

Thomas Groome: A Professor of Theology and Religious Education at Boston College and has published numerous works in the areas of history, theory and practice of Religious Education and practical theology. His work on “What makes a school Catholic?“ is well known and he has written widely in this area.
Master Class Date: Thursday 12th May

Trevor Cooling: A Professor of Christian Education at Canterbury Christ Church University in the United Kingdom, Trevor Cooling has a particular interest in Christian pedagogy, in particular: (a) the place of distinctively Christian education in a religiously diverse context and (b) the development of a distinctively Christian approach to teaching and learning.
Master Class Date: Monday 25th July

We encourage you to mark these dates in your calendars and further information about these Master Classes will be sent in 2016. For further information please contact:
